

From: boscomp@kfi.ca
To: frank@tdsecurities.com
Subject: CAT Random Alpha approach idea
Date: Monday, December 31, 2012 4:07:06 PM

The CAT-Order-ID should be a unique order identifier randomly selected from the alphabet (A-Z). Only the SRO's or the central repository should be able to piece back the order to the originating firm and customer.

Kfii Boscomp | Trading Business Management, Analyst | TD Securities
31 West 52nd Street, 18th Floor, New York, NY 10019

TD Securities does not accept any liability or incur either direct or consequential caused by the use of this information. This communication is for informational purposes only and is not intended as an offer or solicitation for the purchase or sale of any financial instrument or as an official confirmation of any transaction. TD Securities is neither making any investment recommendation nor providing any professional or advisory services relating to the activities described herein. All market prices, data and other information are not warranted as to completeness or accuracy and are subject to change without notice. The information contained herein is provided for your exclusive benefit and use. The information shall not be further distributed or duplicated in whole or in part by any means without the prior written consent of TD Securities. Any statements made herein do not necessarily reflect those of TD Securities or its affiliates.

TD Securities is a trademark of The Toronto-Dominion Bank and represents TD Securities (USA) LLC and certain investment banking activities of The Toronto-Dominion Bank and its subsidiaries.